Installation

XFRS Series Components are designed for high quality sound systems. XFRS Series Components garner exquisite definition and detail.

To get the highest performance from your XFRS Components please observe these very important rules .

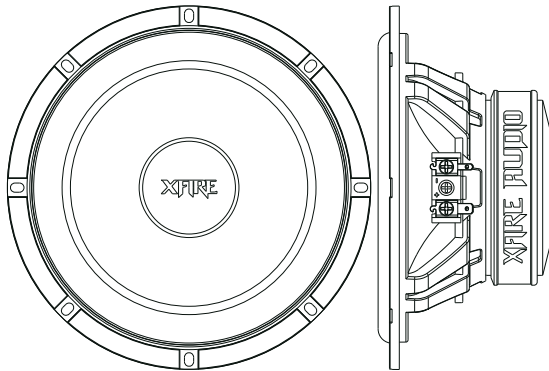

To ensure you'll have a good midbass response:

- Make sure all components are connected with the right polarity
- Make sure the midrange is mounted to a strong surface with an airtight seal so the backwaves of the speaker cannot mix with the front waves of the speaker (a so called acoustic short circuit)
- Make sure your amplifier has the High pass filter function switched ON and set to the 50 - 80Hz region , depending on the subwoofer system you are using
